EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT OFFICIALS MONITORING NORTHERN OHIO FLOODING

COLUMBUS - Personnel with the Ohio Emergency Management Agency, a division within the Ohio Department of Public Safety, remain in contact with Emergency Management officials in Cuyahoga and Lorain Counties, following heavy rainstorms and localized flooding which occurred on Tuesday.

County officials are continuing to assess what impact these storms had upon homes and businesses throughout the area. At this time, no requests have been made for disaster assistance from neither the state of Ohio or the Federal Emergency Management Agency. The Ohio Emergency Management Agency and the Ohio Department of Public Safety will continue to monitor the situation for any changes.
